

eTwinning 2025-2026

Project name: INTERCLASS

(IdentifyiNg ThE futuRe CLASsroom)

Pupils from 6 countries (7 schools) write a fictional collaborative story.

Every pupil writes his/her name & country and then adds 2-3 phrases continuing the story

A time adventure in ancient Egypt

In May 2026, a group of eTwinning pupils from different countries finally met in real life. They came from Greece, Italy, Croatia, Sweden, Lithuania and Ukraine. Some had already spoken during online meetings, but this was the first time they could see each other face to face.

They met in Egypt, a country full of history, mystery and ancient secrets. On the first day, they visited the amazing Pyramids of Giza. The sun was shining brightly, and the huge pyramids looked like golden mountains in the desert. Their teachers told them stories about pharaohs, hidden treasures and ancient inventions.

While the pupils were exploring near the Great Pyramid, Sophia noticed something strange behind a large stone. It looked like a small metal door, half covered by sand. "Come and see this!" she called.

Curious and excited, the group carefully moved the sand away. Behind the door, there was a narrow staircase going underground. At the bottom, they discovered a mysterious room. In the middle of the room stood a strange machine made of metal and glass. It had buttons with symbols, a large crystal in the center, and a small screen with numbers that were flashing.

“What if this is... a time machine?” whispered Luca.

Everyone laughed at first. But then Luca pressed one of the glowing buttons.

Suddenly, the door closed behind them. The crystal began to shine with a bright blue light. The numbers on the screen started going backwards very fast.

The ground began to shake.

The pupils held hands and screamed as the room filled with light...

And then everything went dark.

Petra, Croatia

When the light faded, there was silence. Slowly, the pupils opened their eyes. They were no longer inside the hidden room. They were standing outside — but something was different.

Marija, Croatia

The pyramids were still there... but they didn't look ancient anymore. The stones were smooth and bright. Workers were pulling huge blocks with ropes. Men in white linen clothes were shouting instructions. Camels and wooden carts moved across the sand.

Sophia gasped. “We're... we're in the past!”

Marta, Croatia

A tall man wearing a golden collar and a striped headdress walked by, surrounded by guards.

Luca's eyes grew wide. “Is that... a pharaoh?”

Before anyone could answer, a young Egyptian boy about their age approached them. He looked surprised but not afraid.

“Who are you?” he asked in a language they somehow understood.

Nika, Croatia

The pupils stared at each other. “We're... travelers,” said Eleni bravely.

The boy smiled. “My name is Khepri. You are not dressed like anyone from here.”

They looked down at their modern clothes and trainers.

“We come from... far away,” said Vedran carefully.

Khepri nodded thoughtfully. “Then you must see something important. Today is a special day.”

Elena, Croatia

He led them toward the Great Pyramid. Workers were celebrating. Musicians were playing drums and flutes. Priests were carrying a shining object covered with a cloth.

“What’s happening?” asked Greta.

“The final stone,” Khepri explained proudly. “Today the pyramid reaches the sky.”

Suddenly, Sophia felt something warm in her pocket. She pulled out a small piece of crystal — a fragment from the strange machine. It was glowing again

Yousef, Sweden

The fragment was glowing and the crystal in the priest’s hands was also glowing. They saw the dog with three heads.

Said, Sweden

The large dog with the three heads seemed terrifying. He was guarding a temple.

Theodore, Sweden

“I have never seen something like that” whispered Greta.

They suddenly heard gunshots in the distance and look like they aren't the only ones who timetravels. “Maybe we are not the only ones who travelled through time,” said Luca nervously.

Alvin, Sweden

The team moved carefully toward the city. People were running through the streets.

Bil, Sweden

In a small jewellery shop, they saw another glowing stone. The pupils felt its strange power.

Chris, Greece Irakleio

They suddenly realized that they had to gather all the missing pieces of the crystal in order to reach home. The only problem was that they didn’t know where to find them. The team splitted in two and ran towards the priest and the jewellery shop.

Kostas, Greece Irakleio

Sophia, Luca and Greta headed to the jewellery shop. They were all excited but also worried. Would they finally be able to acquire all the stones? As they were running towards the shop, a mysterious man in white passed by Luca and grabbed the shining stone.

Eleanna, Greece Irakleio

Luca saw him but couldn't catch him. Together with Sophia and Greta they chased him and tried to recover the shining stone.

"Who is this mysterious man?" shouted Greta.

"I haven't seen him while we're here," said Luca.

Khepri saw them chasing the mysterious man and told them that he is a thief probably from the future.

Alice, Italy

They went back to the pyramid, chasing the thief from the future. The pupils got into the dark tunnels. Sophia suddenly remembered she had a torch inside her backpack. Now they were able to see the man shifting from one room to another. The pupils saw the thief slip into a funny machine. They couldn't let the man run away like that with the pharaoh's shining stones. But to open the machine door they were supposed to solve many questions about ancient Egypt in a certain time. They went into panic.

Noemi, Italy

The questions were: "What was the silt for? Luca answered: "It was used as a fertilizer for agriculture"; another question: "What is the main river in Egypt?", Greta said: "The Nile"; "Which are the most important pyramids in the Egypt?", Sophia answered: "Those belonging to Cheops, Chephren and Micerino"

Nadia, Italy

As for their last issue the pupils had to solve the Sphinx's riddle as Edipo back then: "What walks on four legs in the morning, two legs at noon and three legs in the evening?". The kids were astonished: that was a really difficult question! Then suddenly Greta said: "A human being!"

Alice, Italy

As soon as the pupils solved all the quizzes, they were able to catch the thief but the shining stones slipped from the thief's hand, swallowed by the sand. Now those precious rocks were really hard to find.

Angeliki, Greece Irakleio

The pupils started digging the sand to find the shining stones in panic.

“I can’t find them!” said Greta desperately.

“Keep looking!” Luca shouted.

After searching for a long time, they found all the stones and they decided to go deeper in the tunnel to find the exit. But, instead of the exit, something really dangerous was waiting for them...

Marina, Greece Irakleio

Suddenly, a loud noise echoed through the tunnel and the ground began to shake. A huge shadow appeared in front of them blocking their way out. The pupils held their breath not knowing what would happen.

Konstantinos, Greece Irakleio

The huge creature revealed itself. It was a giant scorpion made of gold and stones, its eyes glowing like bright crystals. The pupils stared in terror, but Sophia remembered the crystal fragment in her pocket and held it high. The scorpion froze, its eyes shining an intense blue. The light from the crystals opened a new passage leading to the next challenge.

Urtė, Lithuania

The pupils looked at each other and slowly walked into the passage. Suddenly, they heard strange footsteps echoing behind them. “Hurry!” whispered Sophia as the ground began to shake again.

Austėja, Lithuania

They ran as fast as they could through the narrow passage. The walls around them shook violently with strange symbols that glowed whenever the crystal pieces came close together. The footsteps behind them grew louder — heavy, metallic, and unstoppable.

Viktorija, Lithuania

The pupils finally saw a small light at the end of the tunnel and ran towards it. As they reached the exit, the ground suddenly stopped shaking and the footsteps disappeared.

Tėja, Lithuania

They calmed down and looked around. The kids were confused and couldn't understand where they were, however they knew that they were safe. The pupils saw ancient clay boards on the walls. The boards looked like they had some sort of code encrypted into them.

Ankel, Greece - Ilion

While they were trying to decrypt the code Lucas found a small letter with something written on it. After a lot of thinking they realized it was a clue for the code.

Lorentzos, Greece - Ilion

Once they read it, they saw that the language was hieroglyphics. Luckily for them, Lucas said he knew some, because his father is an archaeologist.

Viktoriia, Ukraine

With great effort and the help of Lucas, they were finally able to read the code. But nobody had expected what was the meaning behind it....

Panagiotis, Ilion Greece

The letter not only explained how to go back to the future, but also explained how the time machine worked. Everybody was surprised by such a complicated mechanism.

Giorgos, Ilion Greece

But there was a problem...they only had five minutes to solve the puzzles and get back to the present

Yana, Ukraine

It was really scary to make a mistake and fail to solve the puzzle. The teens were anxious but enthusiastic, as it was their only chance to go back home.

Oleksandra, Ukraine

Luca understood that the first puzzle was not hard to be solved. He decided to use the ancient code, and place all the crystals in the correct order. It took only 30 seconds to solve the first puzzle.

Yura Androsiuk, Ukraine

Luca carefully placed the last crystal into the correct position, and suddenly the symbols on the wall began to glow softly. "I think it's working," Sophia whispered as the pupils gathered around the machine and watched the screen slowly light up while the numbers started changing again.

Noa and Sandro, Croatia

Sophia looked at Khepri and made a quick decision. She ran back through the collapsing chamber and grabbed his hand just as the ceiling began to fall. Together, the pupils jumped into the glowing portal while Cerberus disappeared into the shadows. A bright flash surrounded them, and seconds later they found themselves back near the Great Pyramid in modern-day Egypt. The hidden room was gone, but the crystal fragments were still shining softly in Sophia's backpack. Everyone was silent for a moment, trying to understand their incredible adventure. Then Khepri smiled and slowly faded away, leaving behind only an ancient golden necklace as proof that their journey through time had been real.

